Plan selection

Customer
$160+ billion global telecommunications company

Problem
Employees were enrolling in the same health plans year after year despite the addition of new, cost-effective plan options. Many were over-insured, but there was no easy way to show them how much they could save by switching plans.

Goal
Make it easier for over-insured employees to visualize savings and migrate to the most cost-effective plan for their needs. Increase enrollment in bronze plans among the members who stood to save the most from them.

Our approach
Build a plan decision support tool that simulates people's expected care utilization and estimates their annual out-of-pocket spend with each plan. Highlight the optimal plan for them based on cost and network participation of their preferred doctors.

Outcomes

$557	$1,355	26%
employer savings per person who switched plans	average savings per person who switched to the optimal plan	increase in HSA contributions among those who used the tool
